

Riot squad clears campus after MIS 'demonstration'

by Leslie Waxman

A thirty-man contingent of the Montréal police riot squad last night cleared 11 student members of the right-wing Mouvement pour l'Intégration Scolaire (MIS) from an Administration Building annex they had occupied for three hours to protest proposed legislation guaranteeing English-language linguistic rights in Quebec.

Prior to the ejection, about fifty others, both student and non-student members of the MIS had stood outside chanting slogans denouncing Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, the province's English-language system of education, and the Anglophone presence generally in Quebec.

The group arrived on campus after an MIS meeting to protest Bertrand's scheduled introduction in the legislature of a bill designed to guarantee the linguistic rights of the province's English-speaking minority.

(The MIS was vaulted into prominence when it managed to acquire voting superiority on the St. Leonard school board by means of the local elections and subsequently succeed in having the board discontinue English-language education beginning with first-graders.)

MIS president Raymond Lemieux, who arrived shortly after the annex had been occupied, said the action had not been an official MIS project but had been undertaken by some of the students on a spontaneous basis.

He said he had no authority to speak for the students who had barricaded themselves inside the annex, but hoped ed the building would be held until Bertrand definitively withdrew his bill.

(Bertrand had originally intended to introduce his bill in the legislature last week, but delayed introduction after some members of his cabinet protested the entrenchment of English-language rights. He has said the bill would be introduced this week at the latest.)

Early this morning, the Students' Society executive (Robert Hajaly, Ian Hyman, and Peter Foster) released a statement on the MIS action.

It reads: "We strongly deplore the action taken last night by the MIS in occupying buildings on the McGill campus. It is true that French-language educational facilities in Quebec are in drastic need of expansion but this does not justify such actions at McGill, most of whose students fully agree that additional French-language universities are immediately required. This is in fact an official position of the McGill Students' Council."

"It is important to note that much of the blame for such incidents must fall on the shoulders of the Quebec government which has ignored the needs of the Quebec population in its educational policies."

The police were apparently called to the campus by Principal Robertson and Vice-Principal Shaw who were in Dr. Robertson's office at 11 pm last night. They were unavailable, however, for absolute confirmation.

The annex was occupied about ten o'clock. At about

PSA - faculty talks move at snail's pace

by Sheryl Taylor-Munro

Political Science faculty yesterday refused to concede that students should have an effective voice in hiring and firing.

Student negotiator Peter Foster said faculty's position was "you can have all the participation you want as long as it doesn't mean anything."

The students' position that there should be two students - one graduate, one undergraduate - on the new Appointments Committee and that the committee's role should be to present a short list from which section - on which students would have one-third representation - would make a final selection was attacked on two counts.

Chairman J. R. Mallory said that it was impractical to wait for section meetings before making appointments. Appointments must be made in a hurry, Mallory said; otherwise, it is often found that "the bird has flown."

The students agreed to modify their demands so that the committee could function autonomously between section meetings. Because of the expanded role of the committee, however, they said that in this case there would have to be three students on it.

Michael Brecher disagreed on a different point. "Students," he said, "cannot be considered the equal of faculty in their interest, right or competence in making appointments. Is a second-year medical student the equal of a doctor? Can a second-year engineering student determine what engineers are competent to teach in that faculty?"

The faculty were on the defensive throughout the meeting. The students' opening statement, delivered by Harry Cowen, restated the PSA's reduced demands, summarized the futility of past meetings and the absurdity of faculty's position, and quoted from T. S. Eliot, John Maynard Keynes and John Lennon to repeated laughter and applause from the television audience in the Leacock Auditorium.

"To us, student participation means strength in voting, recognition of status, an annihilation of the colonial concept of chitchat with the natives," Cowen said.

Should a sufficient number of councillors see fit to attend, there will be a meeting of Students' Council tonight at 7 pm in Union 327. The agenda, left over from last week's non-meeting, will deal with the PSA, the Judicial Board, rules for the Union, and student housing.

Psych assn. wants legal status

A meeting of seventy psychology students yesterday decided to ask Students' Council to officially recognize the Association of Psychology Students. The association is now recognized by the department as the legitimate representative of psychology students.

Paul Wong, president of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society (ASUS), said later that a number of the new societies such as the Political Science Association, Association Générale des Etudiants françaises, English Literature Association, and the Sociology Students Union have been recognized as part of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society but none have applied for separate recognition from the Students' Society.

Ian Hyman, External Vice-President of Students' Council said that although he had no a priori objection to the Psychology students becoming part of the Students' Society he thought an agreement between ASUS and the Students' Society would have to be worked out over the recognition of new students' associations.

A joint committee of students and faculty has been set up to examine the structure of the department; this committee will hold its first open meeting today at 4 pm in Stewart N7/17.

Student representatives have been appointed to the Joint Committee and a Curriculum Committee on an interim basis until elections can be held.

The Curriculum Committee also meets today at 7 pm in Stewart S3/5. It will discuss proposals for course changes and student proposals for new courses.

These proposals would necessarily require new staff appointments if accepted and the students feel that discussion of their proposals will implicitly involve them in discussion of departmental orientation.

A similar question of departmental orientation and staff appointments led to the PSA occupation of the Leacock fourth floor.

SFU cans action

BURNABY (CUP) - The crisis at Simon Fraser is over for this semester.

The teach-in showed few signs of getting off the ground Tuesday as most classes dealt with regular course material rather than the issues which led to the blow-up.

The Monday night Senate meeting went into a six-hour marathon session and, after hearing two major proposals dealing with admissions policy, waffled its way to another meeting next week.

The library at SFU was filled to capacity Tuesday as students, behind on their studies because of the two-week action, hit the books hard to catch up.

Student Ombudsman, Ace Hollibaugh, blamed the teach-in failure on a statement last week by Administration President Ken Strand. Strand said he supported the teach-in idea but stressed that regular classes would have to continue.

Meanwhile, the 114 students arrested in the SFU Administration building have been remanded to trial in January but there has as yet been no administration push to drop the charges.

The Senate meeting, attended by over 200 student observers, was in session largely to consider two proposals for reform in admissions policy.

The paper proposed a Canadian equivalent to the College Board Test administered by the American Educational Testing Service. It was shot down quickly because of general reluctance to substitute one test of questionable criteria with another one that would be forced to do the same.

The second proposal called for creation of a provincial academic board to regulate course quality and credit transferability. It ran into criticism from people who thought it would infringe on the autonomy of individual institutions.

Proposed motions to call on the provincial government to raise its grants to post-secondary institutions and to have Senate ask the B.C. Attorney General to drop the charges against the 114, never reached the floor.

NOTES:

The great white father

Toward the end of yesterday's televised negotiating session between political science faculty and students, something the Political Science Association had been pressing for since the beginning of the strike finally occurred. Just why, the PSA wanted to know, did faculty object so strongly to its proposals? What was the principle on which faculty opposition to effective student representation on the appointments committee was based?

Yesterday afternoon, Michael Brecher provided an answer to those questions. Students, Brecher said, were unequal to faculty. Unequal in interest, unequal in right, unequal in competence in choosing the people who would teach in the department. Furthermore, in Brecher's interpretation, the students had already implicitly admitted their inequality in agreeing that the roles of students and faculty could be differentiated and in demanding only two of eight members on the appointments committee.

The students protested that they had originally demanded parity, and that their current demands were not something they considered satisfactory but only a formula they would accede to so that the strike might end. And they pointed out that role differentiation and inequality were hardly the same thing. But Brecher's main argument could not be answered quite so simply. Because if Brecher's exposition of the colonial view of the student was at all representative of the position of faculty, then any hope for a rapid meeting of minds on the points at issue had just vanished.

The students have not admitted their inequality and are not under any circumstances prepared to admit it. This has been clear in every statement they have made, every action they have taken. And it is now evident that the equality or otherwise of students is the real question underlying the disagreements about how many students there should be on the appointments committee and whether or not decisions of that committee should be final.

There were other objections raised to the students' proposals as well: J.R. Malloy, for instance, was worried about their administrability. And the students were willing to change their demands to accommodate this sort of consideration.

But Brecher's objection is far more serious and the students' treatment of it has to be far more careful. A distinction must be made between the university as it is and the university as it should be. At present, after all, students are unequal. They do not have the same interest as faculty in making appointments, since they are told that the only thing they should be interested in is getting a degree. Empirically, they do not have the same rights. And there is nothing in their education to provide them with the competence to make decisions about that education.

Despite this, however, large numbers of students have taken an interest in their own education. They have gone about acquiring the competence to make policy in all areas of concern to the University, and as these negotiations once again demonstrate, they are intellectually more than a match for faculty. And they think that a say in determining the conditions in which they live and work is theirs by right.

The student negotiators, in making the slight shifts in position involved in the negotiation process, must take into account not only what is practical now but what will lead to the kind of university community in which students are genuinely equal members. Because that is a large part of what the political science strike is about.

Justice on Brunswick street

HALIFAX,

Monday, December 2

For Nova Scotia's 17,000 black people, Halifax has at best been a bleak and oppressive place. For these, my people the dingy Brunswick Street court has probably been bl'aker and certainly more oppressive. A black man appeared in that court today. Another will appear tomorrow. This is not unusual. However, these two men are very unusual. Brothers Wadell Smith and Rosie Douglas are above many men who have the ability to deal with oppression. Rosie Douglas dealt with oppression yesterday. I saw him do it.

Jammed between two members of the tough eastern command of the Black Panthers, I watched Rosie Douglas begin to unfold a new chapter in the history of black people in Canada. Someone nearby suggested that the scene was reminiscent of another bleak oppressive town: Oakland, California.

Rosie's court hearing was brief, but significant enough to be noted in some detail.

Magistrate: are you Rosie Douglas?

Rosie: Yes, I am.

Magistrate: Where are you from?

Rosie: I am from Africa. I was brought into North America in chains by white men.

Magistrate: You are charged with loitering on Creighton Street after a Negro meeting in front of a night club in the presence of a crowd of Negro people from Halifax.

You were asked to move four times by an officer of the law and you bluntly refused to move each time.

Rosie: The only charge that you can lay against me is a charge for being black. I was arrested for being a black man.

Magistrate: A what?

by NORMAN COOK

Norman Cook is a black graduate student in sociology at McGill.

Rosie: A black man... It is precisely because you and your police have refused to respect black people that you are making me a victim of your white racist laws.

Magistrate: What nonsense are you talking about? This court does not discriminate against any person on the basis of race, colour, class, or creed. You should know that. Now, are you guilty or not guilty of the charge, Mr. Douglas?

Rosie: I was arrested because I am black. I am positively innocent of any charge of loitering. It seems to be a crime in this city to be black.

Magistrate: You will be tried on Thursday, December 5th at 3 pm. Meanwhile you will remain on bail.

Rosie will appear as scheduled on Thursday. Wadell Smith will appear tomorrow. The feeling among black people around here is that neither will receive justice. But in a few short days the black people of Halifax have become very justice-minded. They are watching the proceedings intensely. The trials of Rosie Douglas and Wadell Smith are far from over. For the black people of this bleak city, the trial of white Canada has just begun.

HALIFAX,

Tuesday, December 3

Halifax magistrate E.D. Murray clearly demonstrated that Canadian justice has nothing to do with black people. Today he found a black man, a Panther, guilty without having evidence to do so. The charge: illegal possession of firearms.

The gallery of the drab Brunswick street courthouse is usually full of people. It has its transients. Yawning reporters, bored legal aids, sober-faced rookie cops pretending that they are learning something. It also has its permanent inhabitants. They are the poor people of Halifax. They are old. They are tired. They are many. This morning's crowd was different.

The gallery and the press box were overflowed with strange people. The children of the damned. That strange coalition of our ties emerged once more.

The local hell's angels who adore Eldridge Cleaver came forty strong to pay their respects to the panther. The left-wing caucus of nearby Dalhousie University even appeared comfortable alongside a group of somewhat wilted flower-children.

Mostly, the crowd was black. Black people who young people have been mobilising for the last two weeks. They had come to see and hear for themselves. They heard much and saw a great deal. They heard two local cops say that last Tuesday they stopped a car containing two black men.

They also heard that these men, Brother George Sams alias Wadell Smith and a local Brother, were stopped for a routine investigation. The cops then searched the car which was driven by George Sams. They found three hunting rifles and some ammunition. The possession of the rifles, as it turns out, was perfectly legitimate.

The local black people then heard that Brother George was arrested and put in a cell for driving a car without a license. The car belonged to local militant Rocky Jones. Get it? The local brother was set free. The cops say they checked the car again and claim to have found exhibit F-1, a 38 calibre German-made revolver.

Local black lawyer Don Oliver's defence attempt was brilliant. Oliver argued with clear facts and from previous legal decisions. Many felt he proved without a doubt the Panther leader was innocent. The black people of Halifax came to see and hear. They feel they saw and heard injustice. What can we do now they are asking? There's the just society? We explain the just society means the just white society. They are angry and they are upset, so is the Black Panther party.

it is obvious what vested interest that notion can serve.

It is such anti-intellect intellectuals who serve as the natural transmission-belts of "anti-concepts" and ad hominen arguments. Ready-made slogans and pre-fabricated, indigestible "package-deals" are all that their uncritical mentalities can swallow and regurgitate.

The following is an excellent example of the ad hominen argument: X through "anti-conceptual" smears is alleged to be immoral, therefore everything X proposes must be immoral.

So long as these smear-games are played by private individuals and private organizations, they can be combatted; they are disastrous culturally, but only by default, by the sanction and cowardice of their opponents. It is, however, a difficult matter when a concerted effort is made to smuggle "anti-conceptual" smears into public institutions, into the province of the government, and to give them official status as part of a major political party's platform. But it will take more than an "anti-concept" and an ad hominen argument to stop the courage, the dedication, and the moral fire on the side of the crusaders for libertarianism.

Parler c'est déjà agir

Sir,

I firmly believe in this saying: Credit where credit is due. I am referring, in this case, to Mr. Terrasse, a member of the teaching staff of the French Department.

Having been made aware that the students of a third-year course which he teaches were dissatisfied with the treatment of the subject, Mr. Terrasse immediately took steps to rectify the situation. He was open to suggestions, and the reforms that resulted from the dialogue are heartening. I only wish that certain other members of this department were as open-minded and willing to consider the voice of the students in academic matters.

It is unfortunate that it is almost invariably the junior members of the academic corporate entities who must strive for reform and innovation in the face of strong opposition from their reactionary seniors. The process would be so much less painful if, for a change, those in positions of power were to introduce reform and amelioration.

twelve o'clock the police arrived and cleared spectators from the immediate vicinity of the annex.

After the arrival of the initial police contingent, a detachment of thirty riot police, complete with three-foot long clubs, appeared on the scene and headed for the annex.

Their first operation was the removal of spectators (MIS members and McGill students) who remained just outside the annex entrance. These were herded down McGill College Avenue and through the Roddick Gates; or were kept off campus by a line of police at the Milton Gates.

About half an hour later, several police entered the annex through the Administration Building and ejected the occupying students. No arrests were made. Instead, the names of the students were taken by police. The ejection was non-violent.

The theatre of conflict then shifted to University Street, where spectators had previously been guided by police, and where scuffling between several of the more conspicuous MIS members and onlooking students broke out.

Shortly after the skirmishing erupted, a McGill student was unceremoniously dumped into a waiting paddy wagon by police. Later another was arrested. The arrested students are Alex Tyssik and Peter Chumack.

As residents of the fraternities lining University Street began to come out to view the mêlée, the police themselves became a target for snowballs and insult.

Education Elect One

MAEVE RICHARDSON, B.Ed (P.E.) III

MacDonald College is going to be an English-speaking CEGEP, which means by 1970 the entire Education Faculty will be moved to the McGill campus. As we will be the 3rd or 4th largest faculty, numbering approximately 1500 students, it is necessary for us to prepare for that move now and take interest in the Students' Council and student affairs.

I propose 1— MacDonald education representative to sit in on open council meetings; 2— McGill education student representation on committee for construction of new Education building; 3— More attention and interest given in the formation of CEGEP as the future of education in Quebec; 4— Greater participation in "Committee of Council" a committee formed by the Students' Council for you, the Education Students of McGill.

SAM BOSKEY, BA 3

The main question which this election must answer is whether or not McGill students will insist on having their Students' Society continue its role of causing change in the university and in society. So far, this policy of student commitment has resulted in the partial democratization of Senate, the movement now advocating student representation at the departmental level, and the ever-increasing acceptance of a critical approach to education. The Students' Society has been a vehicle for student self-expression. If students want these progressive policies to continue, they must consciously vote accordingly.

Sam Boskey has consistently worked towards these ends: towards a more active, representative, and conscientious Students' Society. On Council he will continue his efforts. For a detailed statement of his policy and a stunning resumé of his experience, please read his campaign posters.

COMMITTEE FOR A REPRESENTATIVE COUNCIL

MAX GERTEL, BA III

Honours Math-Physics, University Scholar 1966-67, 1967-68, NDY Executive, McGill Daily

Programme:

- Democratize university structures by continuing fight for student participation on most university committees.
- Oppose the formation of student cliques, divorced from the student body and acting in its own interest.
- Work for new discipline code to secure students' rights.
- Work for trimester system.
- Urge strict auditing of all Students' Council finances
- Adjust to CEGEPs in such a way as to ensure high standards of scholarship, and a smooth transition.
- New constitution to ensure adequate representation for Arts and Science, and to maintain the unity of the Students' Society.
- Urge the construction of a "Performing Arts Centre" for McGill, as has been suggested by various senators and administrators.
- Set legal aid and housing as priorities.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

CHARLES FLAUM, B.Sc III

JAMES DE WILDE, BA 3

Program:

- Council must establish direct two-way communications with the student body it is supposed to represent.
- Council must establish a grievance committee to help the student regarding all aspects of university life.
- Students must take stands on political issues — but Council has no mandate to dictate those stands.
- Council must co-ordinate campus-wide efforts for course reform.
- Council must give priority attention to: student housing, emergency loan fund, summer jobs.
- Council must determine how McGill can best help implement essential educational reforms in Quebec with or without UGEO.

We must end this concept of the Students' Society being an insignificant clique-dominated entity. It must be representative of student desires and student needs. This means a repudiation of stales at Council level. We need your help and involvement on and after December 4 if we are to move towards a new and better Students' Society.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

Qualifications:

Chairman, Teach-in on Racism, Nov. 18-21, 68. — Executive, Debating Union, '68-69. — Governing Board, McGill Hillel, '68-69. — Editorial Board, Strobe Magazine, '67-68. — University Scholar, '66-67, '67-68, '68-69. — Sir William McDonald Scholarship, '67-68.

Proposals:

Full support to student demands for representation on decision-making faculty committees at the departmental level. At the same time, the Students' Society should organize its own programs and courses, presenting interdisciplinary and critical approaches to relevant issues e.g. "Teach-in on Racism".

— Rep by pop on council

— Immediate scrapping of the $86,000 McGill Reporter, re-direction of funds towards student housing immediate implementation of the co-op plan, and establishment of an Emergency Legal and Financial Aid Fund.

— The university should cease to be an instrument for maintaining the status quo and should recognize that it cannot aspire to be "objective" and detached. Rather, it should take active stands on crucial issues of provincial and national importance and not restrict its influence to campus affairs.

4. Restructuring of Students' Council into committees dealing with many routine matters now brought before the entire Council

6. Creation of a CUS Course Guide to serve as an index of student opinion for reps on Student-Faculty relations committee
7. Revision of CUS constitution — greater powers to class presidents — creation of internal and External Vice-President positions

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

SC really is a lark, as anybody who has attended a meeting knows. There is the petty politics, and then there are always the preposterous debates on procedure.

One big laugh. Until you remember the Students' Council (quite rightly) has taken an interest in university and educational affairs. They are speaking for you, without, however, caring to find out what is really happening, or how you feel about it. Charles Mallory stands for a progressive view on education matters: but not progress can even be possible if communication is deliberately disrupted between faculty and students. If students wish to be members of the university community they should act like it.

Remember also that SC spends $300,000 each year. However less and less interest is being paid to the constituent faculties. Engineering and PGSS have already decided to put Students' Society Membership to a vote. But it is not as easy as pulling right out: the problem is to make SC more responsive to the needs of the students. Charles personally believes a decentralization would be most effective, giving the undergraduate and graduate societies more responsibility. Most importantly, he recognizes that there is a problem.

So go to your next SC meeting — and have a good laugh. If you can.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE CHARLES MALLORY, B. Comm III

Architecture Elect One

PATRICK RAHMING

QUALIFICATIONS:

Vice-President, School of Architecture, Secretary-Treasurer Scarlet Key Society, Delegate to Meeting of Young Architects, Mexico 68, Murdoch-Lang design finalist.

PLATFORM:

- 1) Total involvement
- 2) Student participation in decision-making matters
- 3) Complete course re-evaluation and system analysis
- 4) Greater communication at all levels.
- 5) Investigation of relationships between Faculty of Engineering and School of Architecture.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

QUALIFICATIONS:

Chairman A.U.S. Participation, Rendez-vous 68 — Member Housing Co-op Committee — Member Senate Sub-Committee, University Center Expansion — Delegate to U.G.E.Q. Congress 1967.

PLATFORM:

Establish priorities for student housing — Co-ordination of all student-faculty committees on campus to establish communication between student, staff and administration — Autonomous School of Architecture.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

ELIOT W. SHERMAN

Arts and Science Elect Three

DANIEL LUCHINS, BSc.MDCM 3

President, McGill Debating Union; University Scholar 1967-68-69; Gold "A" Debater;

Platform:

- 1) Council must assist in efforts toward parity on all Departmental Committees while insuring that Departmental Student Associations are representative of the students in each department.
- 2) Credit carrying courses should be established upon student demand. Possible subjects could be anything from Black History to Jungian Psychoanalysis.
- 3) Pressure must be placed on the Administration to help meet the Housing Crisis. This would also mean making Residences compatible with human existence.
- 4) Limitations must be placed on campaign expenditures. A small well financed group cannot be allowed to buy its way into office.
- 5) Establishment of a Legal Aid Service for rent and lease disputes.
- 6) Prompt Constitutional reform.
- 7) Re-evaluation of Bookstore, Library, and Scholarship policies.

Background:

Joint Honours History and Political Science; University Scholar 66-67; 67-68; History Association RAP representative and member Steering Committee; Member, two Senate Committees — Sessional Dates and Gault Estate; Red Wing; McGill Daily 66-68;

Proposals:

Change in the University: Improving McGill involves two main steps: urging the adoption of more modern guidelines — credit system, pass-fail courses, new admission and degree requirements; and more important, working for a new attitude towards education based on involvement in society and critical analysis, not isolation and passivity.

In this effort, we believe Students' Council should support morally and financially student departmental association drives for democratization, for parity on committees.

The University in Society: Through the SC, students should assume a role in society by participating in civic affairs and politics and by agitating to make the provincial government fulfill its promise of moving towards universal accessibility.

Norman Spector, Willa Marcus and Danny Roden are running as a team so that certain ideas will be strongly expressed on Council. They each support the proposals in all three pen sketches.

COMMITTEE FOR SPECTOR-MARCUS-RODEN

WILLA MARCUS BA III

QUALIFICATIONS:

— McGill NDY President — Curriculum Committee Rep. Russian Dept. — RadioMcGill; Editor, Le Pétard — academic exchange Germany 1967 — History RAP delegate — Freshman Reception; McGill Rendez-vous 68 — House Leader Model Parliament 67

PROGRAMME:

— proportionate representation for SC — immediate priority to co-operative student housing; action to be taken against exploiting landlords — new university legal code including democratization of residences — full support for students seeking democratization of university gov't at faculty, divisional, and department levels — maintain unity of Students' Society; there is distinction between democracy and obstruction — finance a regularly published literary journal to fill the artistic vacuum on campus — CEGEPs: no differential between French and English streams; large-scale improvement of present standards — disclose secret research — Library: establish emergency committee with systems analyst to direct the incompetent library system and implement immediate changes in stack system, reserves, etc. — implementation of strict control of election expenses — complete access of all Students' Society members to the financial files of the Students' Society to prevent mismanagement and waste of our money.

COMMITTEE FOR A REPRESENTATIVE STUDENTS' COUNCIL

HARVEY MAYNE, BA III

DANNY RODEN, B.Sc. III

Background:

● University scholar 66-67; 67-68; 68-69 ● Managing — editor, McGill Daily ● Co-editor, McGill Scene 67 ● Executive editor, Student Handbook, 67-68

Proposals:

● Urge McGill to participate in the establishment of English CEGEPs to ensure a progressive sound curriculum and to avoid the bungling which occurred in the French CEGEP system.

● Support the Pre-University affairs committee in encouraging high school students to re-evaluate their educational system and in keeping them informed in developments in education, especially vis-à-vis the CEGEPs.

● Urge McGill to re-examine its present priorities: co-op housing and better residences must come before an $86,000 luxury called the McGill Reporter.

Norman Spector, Willa Marcus, and Danny Roden are running as a slate so that Council can have a more coherent program in order to increase its own efficiency. However, they realize there are problems in slate politics and they support the initiation of a mass-base organization to prevent any chance of "bossism".

COMMITTEE FOR SPECTOR-MARCUS-RODEN

Joint Honours Political Science and Sociology ● University Entrance Scholar ● McGill Hillel Governing Board ● Editorial Board Strobe Magazine ● McGill Human Rights Committee 66-67.

CHANGE IN STUDENTS' COUNCIL:

Much has been said of the need for an improved constitution for the Students Society. The amendments that we have presented to the constitution embody such an improvement. We would urge you all to support these amendments so that we can finally have a constitution embodying the principle of rep by pop.

Students Council must assume its vital responsibility of providing legal aid to any student who requires it. Lawyers must be on retainer.

CHANGE IN THE UNIVERSITY:

Students at McGill must be able to take inter-disciplinary studies at other institutions.

Norman Spector, Willa Marcus, and Danny Roden are running as a team in this election because we believe that our proposals are fundamental and that only as a team can we ensure their effective implementation.

COMMITTEE FOR SPECTOR-MARCUS-RODEN

NORMAN SPECTOR BA 3

ROBERT N. (TOBY) STEWART, BA III

I am running a serious but financially handicapped campaign because I believe that I represent a viable alternative to the other candidates.

I believe in representatives who are 1) responsible and 2) responsive to their electorate and who are 3) responsible to the elected ASUS executive. A member of a slate is restricted by the policies of that slate regardless of the wishes of his constituents. There is also some degree of subordination of the representative to those heading the slate. I am independent and flexible.

My platform consists of an attitude towards student government and education. I make no promises. I ask rather that we meet personally to discuss viewpoints and specifics. You see, I believe in two way dialogue rather than monologue pronouncements.

I do feel positively inclined towards these points: 1) universal accessibility to education, 2) student housing and 3) voluntary S.S. membership, and I believe that each requires thorough analysis before further courses of action are determined. Finally there will be no lack of quorum through my absence. Buy and use Christmas Seals.

Engineering Elect Two

KEN CLOWES

BACKGROUND:

CYCOM — Programming Director — EUS Curriculum Committee — Students' Society Education Committee — Joint EUS-Students' Society Course Notes Project — Phi Epsilon Alpha Honour Society — University Scholar.

PLATFORM:

- 1) Ken supports the ideas of rep. by pop. on Council and of Council reps. being responsible to their faculty associations. He feels these changes would make Council more representative of campus opinion. No matter what the outcome of the current constitutional amendments, however, Ken would feel himself bound by any EUS policy.
- 2) He believes in the philosophy behind the recent changes on Senate (i.e. open meetings and student reps) and feels that such changes should be implemented at all levels of the University.
- 3) Ken feels, that because technology is so important in modern life, all students should have the opportunity to take a course in it. He would immediately set up a committee, combining the knowledge of the engineer and the humanist, to design such a course for implementation by 1970.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

DAVID LEVINE

PENSKETCH

David is a fourth year student in Civil Honours and we feel that he is well qualified to represent us on the council. He is an A.C.E. tutor, a member of the Students' Society Education Committee, a member of the Canadian Ski Patrol, and a University Scholar.

PLATFORM:

1. David supports open meetings and student representation on all University bodies whose decisions directly affect them.
2. The Student Society should be responsible to the different faculty associations through these faculty representatives.
3. He feels that Engineering Students should be able to structure in part, the courses they wish to follow.
4. He wants course notes to be handed out in all technical courses and a re-evaluation made of the present teaching methods.
5. Courses should be set up which will relate the Engineers role in society and technical ideas with their social consequences.
6. David feels that in all issues he will be bound by E.U.S. policy.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

PLATFORM:

If elected to office, I shall devote my time and energy to the process of securing a more democratic and efficient council. I believe that more can be done for Engineers by the Students' Society; but this involves remaining in the Students' Society as active rather than as passive members.

My primary considerations are to:

- Obtain a more democratic representation on council than presently exists under the constitution.
- Press for an independent EUS, which will be free to represent its own members to the university administration and to the public.
- Change the present Students' Society fee structure. A more practical split being $10 for the EUS and $20 for the Students' Society.
- Provide responsible representation on Council and direct correlation between the EUS executive and representatives on the Students' Council
- Co-operate with Council by means of a united front in common concerns, as student representation on senate and committees for educational and curriculum reforms

PENSKETCH:

— past president of Mechanical III — have worked on: — Plumber's Pot — Fall Informal — Freshmen Reception

ROBERT KENNA

If elected to Students' Council Chris, a fourth year, honours electrical engineering student, will strive for: 1) Representation by population as outlined in the Spector report; 2) making Council representatives responsible to their respective faculty executives; 3) Humanization of the engineering curriculum; 4) the availability of paperback technical texts; 5) inclusion of problem answers in all technical texts.

The candidate stands against withdrawal from the Students' Society by the engineers as he believes this move to be impractical and unadvisable as only one voice can effectively speak for the McGill student body.

He believes that the Inter-Residence Council is best qualified to defend the interests of the residents and he would oppose any move to undermine its position.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

CHRIS NEUBERT

Law Elect One

ZYSKIND FINKELSTEIN

Platform

1) Make Law a graduate faculty, with graduate status and advantages. 2) Lower Law membership fees into the Students' Society, leaving more funds within the control of the L.U.S. 3) A greater contribution to the university community: a) Make the judicial committee an impartial, non-political body composed only of students of law; b) Heavy law student participation in any forthcoming revisions of the University Disciplinary Code; c) The creation of a committee to provide legal advice for students throughout the campus. 4) Gradual democratization of university structures, while seeking to avoid blatant and violent confrontations. 5) Press for a more federalized Students' Society Constitution: a) Representation by population is necessary; however, b) There must be provisions for insuring an adequate voice for the smaller faculties. 6) Press for a tri-mester system. 7) Oppose a ruling clique in student government and fight for a more objective and responsible Daily.

Background

Zyskind Finkelstein received his Bachelor of Arts in Honours Economics and Political Science. During his undergraduate years, he was: 1) Chairman, Cafeteria Committee, 1967-8 2) Advisor Economics and Political Science Club 3) Member, Canadian-German Academic Exchange Association (exchange student for 1965).

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

We believe that the election of Stanley Goldstein as Law Representative on Council will best enable this Faculty to express its views and opinions; that his candidacy represents a fresh, frank, and forceful approach to the policies that have been emanating from Council in the past few years; that his MAIN objective is to have "LAW LEAD the way" in shaping Council's policies; that at the same time the study of creating a separate Association of Professional Faculties be given prime consideration so that if Law cannot cease from being "a small voice on Council", it will be in the position to pursue another course of action; that freedom of the press must never be denied but that more effective methods be instituted to check the Daily's irresponsible tendencies; that "ACADEMIC ACTIVISM" be pursued in this Faculty; that bilingual exams finally be instituted in Law; that if McGill is to contribute to the future development of Quebec, both French as well as English speaking students in the Faculty must be encouraged to fully participate and contribute.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE.

STANLEY GOLDSTEIN

BACKGROUND

President, McGill Debating Union, 1967-68.

Scarlet Key Society, Gold "A" Debater, Delegate to UGEQ, CCN and Congress Generale, 1967-68. Program Director, Radio McGill 1965-66. L.U.S. Committee on Role of McGill Law Students, 1968. Daily Editorship Candidate, 1968. Staff Reporter, The Gazette and Time Magazine.

PLATFORM:

- Support for constructive efforts to improve curricula, teaching methods and structures; rejection of violent "confrontation politics."
- Retention of McGill Daily's editorial freedom; but insistence that Council as publisher ensure "freedom of the Press" isn't abused by minority using Daily as personal weapon for character assassination and news distortion.
- Insistence that Students' Society and Council serve interests of all students in all faculties, not just over-politicized minority controlling it; priorities must include student housing, employment and accessibility to education.
- Recognition that Council representative must be responsible to his faculty, keep it informed and reflect its views, not just his own.

GEORGE RADWANSKI

Dentistry Elect One

WILLIAM BAKER

This candidate has withdrawn from the election, but his name will appear on the ballot.

We believe that Irwin Lancit is the man best qualified to represent the Faculty of Dentistry. We believe that Irwin Lancit's wish to move away from the polarity that exist on council and towards a more objective approach to all issues that arise is the wish of all Dental students. We believe that this approach will help eradicate the ineptitude that has gripped the student's council.

We support Irwin Lancit when he calls for a re-evaluation of our role within the Student's Society. For far too long this situation has gone unchanged.

We believe that Irwin Lancit is the man who can give us effective representation.

COMMITTEE FOR IRWIN LANCIT

IRWIN LANCIT

DOUG MILLER

Doug Miller has participated actively in his Fraternity, Church, and, for the last two years, has been Secretary-Treasurer of his year. He is hard-working, approachable, and can offer good constructive criticism. We feel his dynamic enthusiasm would be an asset to Council.

PLATFORM:-

- 1) Actively defend the rights of dentistry on Council by organizing the Professional Faculties to present a united front on Council.
- 2) Regularly contribute to the Dental Bulletin to keep the Students informed of Council's present and future Policy Decisions.
- 3) Encourage the formation of Student Faculty Liaison Committees in the other Faculties, similar to that which exists in Dentistry.
- 4) Look into Student Housing — especially concerning apartments for married Students.

Raunchy Red team beats Mac 82-65

Ira Turetsky

Last night, in one of the ugliest games ever played, the Redmen Basketball team slogged by the Macdonald Clansmen by a score of 82-65.

It isn't often that a team masters the lost art of looking like it is getting killed while winning easily, but the Redmen have fooled a lot of people in their two games against Mac.

The game started slowly, as both teams jockeyed for field position. The Redmen artlessly broke the Clansmen press by heaving court length passes. They didn't score on many of these, but it forced Mac deep into its own territory.

Dave Leibson and Sam Wimisner were the best the Redmen had to offer in the first half. They scored 13 and 9 points respectively in leading the team to a 48-39 halftime advantage. The rest of the team was ridiculous, and many of the fans wished that they had gone to the Loyola-Sherbrooke game. They also wished that the players had gone to the other game.

The second half was much like the first, except that it was slower moving. Mac's team outscrapped, outhustled, and were outscored by the Redmen. The game was never in doubt, although some of the Redmen looked like likely candidates for a point shaving scandal.

Knowledgeable fans were particularly concerned by the play of Pierre Brodeur. Called the best player in the city, Brodeur had his third consecutive off night. His shooting was barely adequate, and his man scored 22 points in the first half alone. Brodeur had his moments though, and came up with 17 points to share scoring honors with Leibson. Wimisner and Steve Fraid each had 13, and Andy Orris contributed 10, as all five starters hit double figures.

Star center Nasco Golomeev sat out his second game in a row, with a torn hamstring muscle. Golomeev dressed for this one, but he was spared the embarrassment of having to play. Golomeev should be ready to start the team's next game, on Saturday against the University of Ottawa.

There was one bright note that came out of what was otherwise a study in futility. Mike Reid, who has seen little action this year, came into the game late in the second half, and he made several good passes, stole the ball three times, and made two fine defensive plays.

Double Dribbles: The Redmen still haven't looked like a team for more than two minutes at a time. Cazzie the Greek who called the Redmen by 26 said "these guys sure know how to screw up a nice spread."

Redmen Hoops

by Mike Boone

The basketball Redmen, the praises of whom have been sung to the heavens for about a month now, opened their home season last Friday night with a humiliating 62-56 loss to the Carleton University Ravens. Were it not for the standout efforts of Nasco "Yogi" Golomeev, the Redmen would have been swamped by at least 20 points. A capacity crowd watched the Redmen engulf the court with essence of dung for most of the game.

As last season groaned to a halt, Brooklynesque cries of "Wait 'til next year", could be heard among the basketball cognoscenti. The two stars of last year's squad, Steve Hurley and Jack Wessel, would be back, along with the hero of the JV Indians, Bobby "meth" Beaupré. In addition, Pierre Brodeur, the league's high scorer with the hapless U de M cripples and "Yogi" Golomeev, the massive 6'8" Bulgar, were on the negotiating list. With 6'5" Jeff van Hartesveldt for bench strength, the Redmen looked golden.

pensionship, however. Hurley flunked and had to leave school this year due to personal problems. Van H flunked and is ineligible. Last, but certainly not least, Beaupré flunked and is now at UBC. Fortunately, due to frantic behind the scenes recruiting on the part of Steve "Night Train" Fraid, we did come up with Brodeur and Golomeev. Terms were never disclosed, but it's rumored that the next residence will be named Nasco Hall.

Things were not totally desperate. Fraid had whipped himself into the finest shape of his long and glorious career and my colleague, Ira Turetsky, was raving about championships like a speed freak. Then the roof fell in. Fraid disappeared into academic limbo, surfacing in Commerce 2. Disaster struck when Jackie Wessel quit over an "attitude" dispute and some facial hair. Redmen bench strength had reached its lowest ebb in ages, to the extent that Cazzie Levin emerged briefly from a long and well-deserved retirement. Fortunately for the aesthetics of the viewing public, Cazzie reminded no one of John Havlicek and was summarily axed.

The team that faced Carleton on Friday had a unique problem. A painfully hamstrung Golomeev stood under the basket waiting to turn any pass into two points. Unfortunately, without Wessel, the Redmen had nobody who could get the ball to the friendly giant. Sam Wimisner and "Old Faithful" Dave Leibson are good ballplayers but neither is a ball-handler. Fraid was psyched into a terrible game and Brodeur's play was an embarrassment. Old buddy Andy Orris is a solid player but he isn't a scoring threat. Nasco brought the team to within 3 points late in the game, but they folded.

Now, the Redmen will beat most everybody but they won't win against either Loyola or Carleton until they get a guard that can move the ball. If there is an unsung Earl Monroe (even a Larry Sigfreid) on this campus he should get a nice brush cut and haul his ass up to coach Mooney's office. I understand that Lucius Allen got kicked out of UCLA for the consumption of no-no tobacco. He should transfer up here. He'd fit right in with the boys.

Rouge et Or in town tonight to battle struggling puckmen

by Ian Urquhart

The Redmen continue their journey through the OQAA hockey schedule in search of their identity against the first place Rouge et Or of Laval here tonight.

To date, the Redmen are uncertain whether they are the team that out-skated and outhit U de M a week ago, or the team that struck out against Carleton last Sunday.

In their five games this season (including one exhibition), the Redmen have two wins, both at home, and three losses, all on the road. Perhaps home ice will revive the team and produce another win.

Indeed, Coach Brian Gilmour blames the loss at Carleton on his practice of taking the team to a road game early, so that the players have several hours to rest before they put on their skates. "After the long rest in Ottawa before the game Sunday, the players' legs got heavy and their minds relaxed, and they just never found themselves," Gilmour explained.

Laval powerful

But it will take more than light legs and fresh minds to beat Laval. Unbeaten in three league games, the Rouge et Or have proven themselves to be the class of the Eastern Section. They are tied with U de M for first place with a game in hand, and have averaged more goals for per game (8.7) and less goals against (3.3) than any other team.

U de M's position at the top is suspect since two of the Carabins' three wins have come against the horrendous Ottawa Gee Gees. As the season progresses, three divisions should become evident within the Eastern Section. Laval will occupy the top alone, and Ottawa will occupy the bottom. The other four teams will fight in the middle for second place, the last playoff spot, and the right to be eliminated by Laval in post-season competition.

Two Laval forwards, centre Jean Rioux and his left-wing, Denis Mercier, are tied for third in the Eastern Section scoring race, each with nine points, one less than John Heslop of Carleton and Jacques Larin of U de M. In addition, the Rouge et Or have two other high-scoring forwards on another line, Normand Côté and Guy Morel. Both finished in the top ten of the OQAA last year.

Strong defense

Add this scoring punch to a solid goalie and a big, heavy defence uncharacteristic of a French team, and the result is a squad, with more depth than their competition, which will eventually run away from the others.

The Redmen will present same line-up as the last two games, not making any changes in spite of the Carleton fiasco. "When the whole team collapses, you can't make little changes," Gilmour reasons.

Skippy Kerner might centre George Kemp and Peter Burgess occasionally to form a super-line if the Redmen need a quick goal. Kemp and Burgess with Stacy at centre have formed the best Red and White line thus far, but they were matched against Carleton's only efficient line Sunday night, Heslop - Wayne Small - Wes Peters, and outscored 6-0.

Against Laval, an improvement is necessary not only in the Stacy line, but also in Kerner's line. And it would be nice if the third line of Jim Kinahan - Terry Harron - Tim Kerrigan looked as if it belonged in the league. All they are required to do is keep the other team from scoring when they are on the ice.

SLAP SHOTS: The Redmen do not have a player in the top ten scorers in the Eastern Section... George Kemp is the team leader with six points on four goals and two assists... U de M dominates the list with five of the top ten, due mainly to their two games against Ottawa. The Carabins scored a dozen goals in each of those games.

NOT THIS TIME: Steve Fraid awaits rebound as number 11, Mike Reid slyly shoulders a hapless Clansman into blowing an easy shot. The Redmen won 82-65 to complete a season sweep over Mac.
